CONTENT INSPIRATION

Pre-Event

Pre-event posts can take many forms on your feed, but video content with a personal spin earns special attention among FABTECH attendees. Before the event, many FABTECH influencers explain what they're most looking forward to while welding creations they'll be showcasing on the show floor. (Some even promote art and swag available to FABTECH attendees as giveaways!)

Other influencers like to take an educational approach and offer advice to first-time attendees based on previous event experiences or FABTECH news. Example pre-event posts below.

Onsite

With four eventful days of FABTECH, many influencers publish onsite feed posts in real-time to be part of the active social media buzz. Others prefer to capture content and produce in-depth recaps after the event has concluded.

FABTECH influencers are welcome to decide how to approach their three-feed post requirement by the September 18 deadline.

Many popular onsite posts highlight cutting-edge technologies discovered at exhibitor booths, compelling insights gained from the FABTECH Conference, and the industry peers met or reconnected with on the show floor. In addition to @FABTECHexpo, we encourage you to tag those who made your FABTECH experience one to remember! Example onsite posts to the right.
